

GEOG 1030 - WORLD REGIONAL GEOGRAPHY

World Regional Geography* introduces you to major world regions and fundamental geographic concepts. It focuses your thinking about the ways in which the world is organized and connected. The point is to build your base of general knowledge about the world and orient you to thinking geographically, which means learning about your relationship to the wider world in everyday life.

Topics Covered (but not limited to):

- The Human-Environment Relationship
- Culture
- Political Geography and Geopolitics
- Economies and Economic Development
- Population
- Migration
- Latin America
- The Caribbean
- Sub-Saharan Africa
- Southwest Asia and North Africa
- Europe
- The Russian Domain
- Central Asia, East Asia
- South Asia
- Southeast Asia
- Australia and Oceania

Regions Covered:

* This Course is taught online & satisfies the Cross-Cultural Awareness Gen Ed requirement

For more information contact: Professor William Terry – terry2@clemson.edu