Understanding the French Bande Dessinée
ENG, 400-level, 3 credits

- Examine the history and artistry of the French bande dessinée and several related forms: the traditional comic, the graphic novel, sequential art, editorial/political drawings, etc. Focus on how the bande dessinées reflect cultural constructions of identity, and consider the explosion in the variety of forms and genres that have appeared since the 1980s.
- Combine with a course on the history of the arts.

Survey of French Literature II
FREN, 300-level, 3 credits

- Study the development of French literature through the analysis of literary movements and the comparison of the most important authors of each period. Texts from different literary genres are selected which demonstrate underlying ideas, the idiosyncrasies of the French people, and universal values, as well as the literary characteristics of the works themselves.
- Combine with a course on French culture.

Program Highlights:
- Study at Université Lumière Lyon 2 and live in France's third-largest city, positioned in a flourishing region between the mountains and the sea.
- Take 12-18 credits and choose from courses in French language, literature, and civilization, including two courses from Clemson Professor Kenneth Widgren that explore Lyon's cultural and literary heritage.
- Immerse yourself in French culture with a homestay (pending availability), which includes breakfast 7 days per week and dinner 5 days per week.
- Explore France through interesting field trips in the local region and the optional Provence tour and field study.
