Search Committee Chair: Dr. Jae Takeuchi (jtakeuc@clemson.edu)

Job Description:
The Department of Languages at Clemson University invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor of Japanese, tenure-track, beginning Fall 2017. Preference will be given to candidates with specialization in Japanese literature or a Japanese cultural specialty such as Japanese film/media studies, anime, pop culture, etc. The successful candidate will be committed to excellence in teaching, be able to teach courses in his/her specialty as well as Japanese language courses at all levels, and demonstrate potential for excellence in research. Candidates will be expected to contribute to the Japanese Language and International Trade program. Native or near-native fluency in Japanese and English are required. Candidates should have PhD in hand at the time of appointment.

Please submit the following documents via Interfolio: cover letter addressing your research and teaching, CV, writing sample, teaching evaluations, three current letters of recommendation and link to a sample teaching video and corresponding lesson plan (for a Japanese language class of any level). Applications received by October 19, 2016 are guaranteed review; however, the search will continue until a suitable candidate is found. Application materials must be submitted to Interfolio. Questions about the position or application materials can be addressed to Dr. Jae Takeuchi, jtakeuc@clemson.edu.
