Fulbright Scholars from countries noted below are not allowed to waive the Clemson University Student Health Plan per the Institute of International Education (IIE):
Dear Foreign Student Advisor,

I want to clarify Fulbright policy regarding insurance for the students from the below countries. For students from these countries, even if the Fulbright ASPE health benefits do meet the university’s insurance requirements, it is a term of their Fulbright grant that they are required to still enroll in university insurance. For those students currently receiving grant funding, this is to be billed to IIE/Fulbright. For those students who are on Fulbright visa sponsorship but are no longer receiving grant funding, they must show that they have the funds for this requirement. Students show proof of enrollment in the insurance policy by answering a survey in which they must provide details of the insurance provider, the dates of coverage, etc.

Students are made aware of this, but this is also important for university FSA’s to be aware of when advising Fulbright students regarding enrolling in vs. waiving the university insurance. Should you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to contact me.
