CBBS ADVANTAGE

The Office of Student Enrichment (OSE) in the College of Business and Behavioral Science (CBBS) exists to cultivate and engage our students to become effective leaders, successful graduates and globally competent professionals. We understand the significance of preparing you for the professional workforce and life after graduation. Our programs and services allow you to gain competitive advantages, which include career preparation, mentoring, internships, international programs and full-time employment opportunities. We also collaborate with faculty and staff to connect you with working professionals, corporate partners and alumni to enhance your Clemson experience.

GLOBAL OPPORTUNITIES

Today’s workplace demands globally competent professionals. We encourage our students to study internationally to develop an understanding of different cultures, societies, economics and business practices. To accomplish this, we offer many study-abroad opportunities, including international internships. We offer various scholarships, grants and travel-aid programs to help fund our students’ international experiences.

BUILDING CONNECTIONS

The Tiger Ties Mentorship Program gives you a head start on creating a real-world network that extends beyond the borders of the University. We’ll match you one-on-one in mentor-mentee relationships with a successful alum. There have been more than 500 participants in the Tiger Ties Mentorship Program, and mentors have been chosen from all over the country and various disciplines.

GAINING EXPERIENCE

An internship is an ideal way to gain entry-level job experience, create professional relationships and determine whether or not your chosen field is the best fit for your future career. Today’s recruiters expect candidates to have completed at least one internship before they graduate.
