What is MACTS for?

We believe in a student-centered education. That means we are here to help you decide what you want to do next with your life, and gain insight, experience, and skills to help with your future. MACTS is a custom-designed program to help students advance into teaching, industry, and PhD programs. Today, that's what over 90% of our alums are doing. See some great examples here! Come let us help you build your future.

ALEXANDER MOE
Assistant Professor

Congrats to our December graduates!
Andrew Moore and Jeanne Petrizzo successfully defended their theses this semester. Their hard work and innovative scholarship on health communication and news discourses of immigration bring us pride.

Located in the beautiful South Carolina Upstate, Clemson students enjoy an affordable cost of living and serene environment to advance their lives, with Atlanta, Greenville, Asheville, Charleston, and other locales only short drives away.

Yiwei Xu • 1st
PhD Student, TA/RA, & Fellow at Cornell University

Daphne Wejbe • 1st
Producer & Media Specialist
New York, New York

Univision Communications...
Clemson
University

See contact info
See connections (500+)

Podcast Product Producer, Growth Initiatives, Univision Communications Inc. • As a media specialist I have spent my career

https://www.clemson.edu/cbshs/departments/communication/academics/graduate/
Your published article is on the SAGE Journals platform!

Dear Andrew Moore,

Congratulations on publishing your article “High School Athletes: Reports of Confirmation as a Function of Starting Status and Leader-Member Exchange” in Communication & Sport!

Contact us on social media: Clemson MACTS or ClemsonMACTS
Email inquiries to: Dr. Travers Scott, Director of Graduate Studies
dscott3@clemson.edu
Come for a visit and tour campus, meet faculty and current students!