Alex Moe ('14) was accepted into the PhD in Communication and Media Studies at Texas Tech University. Meredith Morgoch ('15) presented research from her Health Communication Graduate Certificate at the 23rd Women & Society Conference at Marist College. She and Sara Crocker ('14) tutored on research presentations when Clemson's Women's Leadership and Office of Global Engagement hosted 32 Sub-Saharan Fulbright Scholars for a Leadership and Re-Entry Seminar. Crocker is an Instructor of Communication at Anderson University. Megan Bates ('14) is an Account Coordinator with Levick Public Relations and Strategic Communication in Washington, DC. Parker Smith ('15) created a Mentoring Program that pairs students with graduates of the College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities. It has grown from 17 to 113 pairs in the last semester. Jessica Frampton ('15) presented “#Iamlonely: An Exploratory Study of Types of Loneliness Expressed on Social Media” at the Carolinas Communication Association. Colleen (Dungey) O’Hare ('13) is Quality Management and Improvement Generalist at Trillium Community Health Plan in Eugene, Oregon. Roth Smith ('14), earning his PhD in Organizational Communication and Technology at University of Texas Austin, participated on the panel, “The Bigger the Data the Harder the Fall? Opportunities, Methodologies, and Challenges to Big Data Analysis” at the National Communication Association. Clemson’s Women’s Leadership invited Sarah Arbogast ('13) to speak on Women in Communication and Public Affairs. She is Director of Marketing and Events at iMAGINE Upstate. Brandon Boatwright ('13), Clemson Lecturer & Assistant Director of our Social Media Listening Center, spoke with other department faculty on “Promoting Advocacy In The Basic Courses” at the Carolinas Communication Association. In addition to freelance work on social media and marketing, Elizabeth Muckensturm ('13) is Adjunct Lecturer in the Department of Communication, Languages, and Cultures at Coastal Carolina University. While working as Associate Public Affairs Specialist at Savannah River Remediation LLC, Madeline Blair ('13) is Adjunct Instructor at the University of South Carolina Aiken’s Department of Communications.
Clemson is our home town, but Greenville, SC, is our home city. Clemson programs operate at Falls Park, ONE Main, University Center, and the International Center for Automotive Research. Communication Studies’ Erwin Center for Advertising and Communication works closely with Erwin Penland’s offices in Greenville and New York City. MACTS students, staff, and faculty live, work, and play here, including our annual MACTS Night Out in “G-Vegas.”

Lonely Planet: #15 Best in US • Google: eCity for S. Carolina
Forbes: Cities With The Greatest Capacity For Innovation
Livability.com: #33 America’s Top 100 Best Places to Live
TripAdvisor: #10 Best Park in America • Travel & Leisure: America’s Quirkiest Towns
USA Today: 10 Best Cycling Towns in America
Fox News: Passerelle Bistro Top Dining Spots in United States
Smarter Travel: Best Small Cities on the Rise, 10 Best Small Towns for the Holidays