

Becky Tugman, MS, CHES

ABOUT ME:

I am a Lecturer in the Department of Public Health Science (PHS). I received my B.S. in Human Nutrition at the University of Wyoming and my M.S. in Health Education with an interdisciplinary focus of exercise science and nutrition at the University of Utah. I am a certified health education specialist (CHES). My primary focus is faculty development for higher education. My advisor is Dr. Karen High.

I'M INTERESTED IN THESE RESEARCH QUESTIONS:

- ❖ How do faculty development efforts improve student satisfaction?
- ❖ What barriers prevent faculty from using best teaching practices?

INTERESTED IN COLLABORATING?

I HAVE TO OFFER:

- I have sixteen plus years of teaching in higher education
- I oversee assessment and accreditation for PHS

I AM SEEKING TO:

- To assist faculty to make teaching modifications for a more student-centered focus.
- To promote the value of faculty development and best teaching practices.
