The CVA serves as the umbrella for all visual art activities at Clemson University. Although there is not a physical building for this center as of yet, the majority of activities for the CVA are generated out of the Lee Hall buildings located on the main campus of Clemson University.

The Passport to the Arts continues to be one of the most exciting and popular affairs. Hosted along with the Clemson Arts Center, this sold out event brings together fine art, entertainers, live music, drinks and exceptional food showcased at several locations in Clemson. Mark your calendar—March 4, 2016.

The ceramic sales as well as the Community Support Art (CSArt) shareholders program makes art accessible to the public by offering artwork for sale at reasonable prices. All sales generate support for student research and travel to professional conferences.

The Clemson University Center for Visual Arts (CVA) is proud to be the host of several collaborative galleries and exhibits, both on and off campus. We invite you to enjoy the activities and events offered throughout the year in these various locations.

On the cover is a photo of the installation: Stories on My Back by Richard A. Lou, MFA ’86. This exhibit tells Lou’s unique family history and invites viewers to examine their own stories as well as the stories of others.

It is with great pleasure that I present the 2016 Fall Calendar of Events for the Center for Visual Arts (CVA) at Clemson University. With a mission to engage and render visible the creative process, the CVA is a dynamic intellectual and physical environment where art is created, exhibited and interpreted. We welcome you to be a part of these exciting places of learning and discovery by attending our many activities throughout the year. The majority of our events remain free and open to the public thanks in part to our generous supporters.

Last year, our Art faculty taught over 160 individual classes to approximately 1,150 students. As thriving, working professional artists, they collectively exhibited and published works, as well as participated in over 100 regional, national and international exhibitions, publications and lectures, all while winning awards and managing a robust class schedule.

Last fall, our CVA-Greenville satellite facility transitioned to a new location on the fifth floor of the Greenville ONE building on Main Street, thanks to a partnership with the Clemson MBA program. With roots in The Village of West Greenville, this new location provides Clemson University with the opportunity to join in a larger network of artistic professionals, highlighting the synergy of art and business in “Clemson’s home city.” As you can see, the CVA’s limitless potential continues to deliver transformative opportunities for our students and the entire Clemson Family.

We are always looking for new friends to join our cause. To become a Friend of the CVA, please visit clemson.edu/cva/belong. Welcome to a new season at the CVA — I can’t wait to see you in one of our ten galleries and exhibit spaces from Clemson to Greenville.
