Tenure Track Assistant Professor in School Counseling

Clemson University is a land grant, research institution located in Clemson, SC near the lower end of the Appalachian Mountains and halfway between Atlanta and Charlotte. The Eugene T. Moore School of Education at Clemson University invites applications for one tenure track assistant professor position with an emphasis in school counseling.

Clemson University strives to prepare school counselors who possess the skills and dispositions to work effectively with diverse populations and to engage in data-driven practices. The Counselor Education program at Clemson University offers CACREP-accredited master's degree concentrations in School Counseling and Clinical Mental Health Counseling as well as educational specialist degrees in both areas. The evening programs serve a combination of full-time and part-time students. Courses are taught on campus and in Greenville, SC (30 miles north of campus). Optional summer teaching is available.

Tenure Track Assistant Professor in School Counseling
Start date: August 2016

Responsibilities:
• Engaging in scholarly activities focused on research, publications, conference presentations, and external funding
• Teaching on and off campus classes in school counseling and the counseling core
• Supervising school counseling practicum and internship students
• Advising master's students in school counseling
• Participating in program, departmental, college, university, and professional service

Preferred Qualifications:
• Earned Doctoral degree in Counselor Education from a CACREP-accredited program
• School counseling experience (beyond graduate internships), ideally in in socially, culturally, and economically diverse schools
• Potential for or evidence of excellence in research and scholarship, teaching and supervision, and service in the field of school counseling
• Licensed or license-eligible (e.g., licensed school counselor and/or LPC)

To Apply: Please send letter of application, curriculum vita, graduate transcripts (unofficial copy is acceptable), and three letters of reference (references should submit these letters directly to us). Application materials should be sent electronically to the departmental administrative assistant, Janet Arnold, at arnold5@clemson.edu. Inquiries about the positions should be made to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Amy Milsom, at amilsom@clemson.edu. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Applications submitted by February 8, 2016 will be given top consideration, but screening of applications will continue until the position is filled.