Social Studies. Assistant Professor.

The Eugene T. Moore School of Education at Clemson University seeks a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Secondary Education-Social Studies beginning Fall Semester 2016. Required Qualifications: Earned doctorate in Social Studies or Curriculum & Instruction with an emphasis in secondary social studies/history and a minimum of three years of successful high school teaching experience. Preference will be given to candidates with knowledge and research experience in one or more of the following areas of study: race and ethnicity, teaching history, and critical theories. As our program features a dual major in secondary social studies education and history, content knowledge in history is critical; preferred candidates will have substantive undergraduate/graduate coursework in history. In alignment with the College of Education’s mission, successful applicants should have an interest in actively engaging with underperforming schools and underserved communities across the nation and state. The new faculty member will be expected to teach undergraduate- and graduate-level courses in secondary social studies education with a history emphasis, advise master and doctoral-level graduate students in their research, develop and maintain an active scholarly research agenda, participate in external research and grant activities, and help support the work of social studies teachers in the state.

Clemson University, a land grant, public university, is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, pregnancy, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status or genetic information.

To apply, send letter of application, curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and contact information for three references to Ms. Sandy Cizmar, at scizmar@clemson.edu; please reference Social Studies Search Committee in your cover letter. Inquiries may be addressed to Dr. Mindy Spearman, search committee chair (mjspear@clemson.edu). Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Applications received by January 15, 2016 are guaranteed full consideration; however, applications will continue to be received until the position is filled.