Acknowledgements

We appreciate the generous sharing of ideas and results by many peanut workers in all the peanut producing states and are particularly indebted to:

Drs. Tim Brenneman, Albert Culbreath, Bob Kemerait (University of Georgia); Drs. Tom Islieb and David Jordan (NC State University) and Dr. Pat Phipps (Virginia Tech, retired).

Dr. James Camberato, Purdue University, co-authored the fertility check list and has provided invaluable support on fertility issues for many years.

Finally, and most importantly, we gratefully acknowledge the support of S. C. peanut growers for peanut Extension and applied research through the S. C. Peanut Board and research support through the National Peanut Board.

Authored by:

Dan Anco¹, Jay W. Chapin², Mike Marshall³, Eric P. Prostko⁴ and James S. Thomas⁵

¹Peanut Specialist, Clemson University, Edisto Research and Education Center, 64 Research Road, Blackville, SC 29817. 803-284-3343 ext 261

cell: 630-207-4926

email: danco@clemson.edu

http://www.clemson.edu/extension/rowcrops/peanuts/index.html

²Extension Peanut Specialist Emeritus, Clemson University

³Extension Weed Scientist, Clemson University

⁴Extension Weed Scientist, University of Georgia, Department of Crop and Soil Science

⁵Ag. Associate II, Clemson University, Edisto Research and Education Center

Photographs by Dan Anco, Jay W. Chapin

The use of trade names in this publication is intended for the purpose of clarity and information. Inclusion of a trade name does not imply approval to the exclusion of other products, which may be of similar composition. Clemson University does not guarantee or warranty the products named.

_Clemson University Cooperative Extension Service offers its programs to people of all ages, regardless of race, color, gender, religion, national origin, disability, political beliefs, sexual orientation, marital or family status and is an equal opportunity employer._