

Burglary Rates

In the year 2000, South Carolina had an estimated population of 4,012,012, which ranked the state as 26th in population. For that year, the State of South Carolina had a total crime index of 5,221.4 reported incidents per 100,000 people. This ranked the state as having the 5th highest total crime index.

For every 100,000 people, there were 969.3 burglaries, which ranks South Carolina as having the 7th highest burglary rates among the states.

Source: FBI, Uniform Crime Reports

For more information, go to <http://www.disastercenter.com/crime/sccrime.htm>.