Kleinschmidt Associates, a nationwide engineering, regulatory and environmental consulting firm with regional offices coast to coast, has a full-time opening for an introductory level Recreation & Environmental Specialist in our Lexington, South Carolina office. The successful candidate will participate as part of a team of technical professionals working on renewable (primarily hydroelectric) and other related projects, primarily in the Southeast, but with opportunities for other projects in the U.S. and Canada. This position will serve in a project specialist role and can expect to spend approximately 60% of their time in the field and 40% in the office.

Qualifications:

• B.S. degree (M.S. degree preferred), in Outdoor Recreation, Resource Economics, or similar discipline
• Advanced skills and experience in study design, implementation, and technical report writing
• Demonstrated history of good self-organizational skills/time management; management of projects or tasks within scope, schedule, and budget
• Experience presenting information to audiences
• Proficiency with ArcGIS, Microsoft Excel, Access, Word, PowerPoint, and statistical software applications such as SPSS or RecPro
• Must be willing and able to travel and possess a passport or the ability to get a passport

Demonstrated Experience:

• Design, drafting, implementation, and management of recreation and or environmental studies
• High-level data analysis, report writing, and presentation of results
• Field data collection using a variety of methods
• Knowledge and or participation in projects involving engineering, permitting, and recreation or environmental disciplines to address and resolve issues

In addition to excellent technical skills, candidates must have sound oral and written communication skills, be self-motivated, and be able to work effectively as a member of a multi-disciplinary team of professionals who possess an entrepreneurial spirit and take ownership of their work. Travel will be required.
