

The Chief Diversity Office and the Provost Office is pleased to announce its sponsorship of an institutional membership with The National Center for Faculty Development & Diversity. The Center offers services to support the professional development and retention of pre-tenure and tenured faculty, post-doctoral scholars, and doctoral students.

The Center provides online advice and tutorials for faculty to aid in publishing scholarly articles and books. Tips are offered for doctoral students to help them complete their dissertation. The following additional services are provided.

What's Included:

- The Monday Motivator a weekly email with productivity tips
- Access to monthly productivity workshops
- Access to monthly guest expert workshops facilitated by faculty development experts from around the country
- Access to Multi-Week courses each term
- Audio recordings, slides, and transcripts of all our workshops for independent learning
- Access to private networking forums
- Access to moderated monthly writing challenges
- Monthly mentor matches

Membership Provides:

- Intense and reliable support from highly trained and successful mentors
- A confidential "safe space" for problem solving
- Downloadable formats so you can learn at your convenience

Benefits to Faculty:

- Greater success in publication and securing external funding for your research
- Increased confidence as an independent researcher
- Healthier relationships with departmental colleagues
- Increased interactions with both campus-based and external mentors, sponsors, and collaborators
