THE OBVIOUS: These are difficult and unpredictable times for us all. As much as we wish we could go back to “normal,” we are presented with a great opportunity to remember what really matters and push through the overarching challenges we face. While I’m sad that our course will not meet face-to-face this semester, please know that I am 100% invested in making this as much of an interactive, engaging, and successful experience as it can be. Toward that end, I ask for your understanding, flexibility, participation, perseverance, and communication. We’ve got this! 😊

It is highly recommended that students have passed POSC 1020 and/or POSC 1040 prior to taking this course.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Though most people today know of the European Union’s (EU) existence, an important underlying question remains: what is it, exactly? Is it another intergovernmental organization—like the United Nations (UN) or North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO)—where individual nation-states group together to achieve a common overarching objective? Is it an up-and-coming nation-state—a soon-to-be “United States of Europe”—currently undergoing a process similar to the United States’ historical experience of unifying thirteen colonies into one sociopolitical entity? Is it a futuristic model of regional or even global governance, hinting at what a world beyond nation-states will look like? Is it a stand-alone polity in its own right, or simply a political tool used by national governments to achieve their own objectives? Could it be parts of all the above? And, most importantly, is it on the brink of failure and dissolution due to recent threats like the financial crisis, migrant crisis, Brexit, Covid-19, etc.?

There are no clear answers. The EU has been different things at different times, and continues to represent different ideals to different people today. Despite its uncertain future, present challenges should not preclude a deep appreciation for all that the EU has already accomplished. Therefore, the primary objective of this course is to provide students with the instruction and resources necessary to determine for themselves “the nature of the beast.” What is the EU? Who is the EU? Where has it come from? Where is it going? What does it do? Why is it important? By evaluating the characteristics and contributions of the EU in comparative context, students will better understand the EU’s cutting-edge role in world politics, economics, and culture.

¹ Please note that I will NOT be on campus regularly this fall so please do not attempt to communicate with me via phone. Email is the preferred method, though please allow up to 48 hours for a response (particularly on weekends.)

² I look forward to connecting with you as often as possible, however due to the online nature of this course coupled with FERPA privacy regulations, please email me to set up a specific meeting time so I can send you a private Zoom link! Also note that office hours may change some weeks due to faculty meetings and other conflicting obligations.

This course takes a multidisciplinary approach weaving together perspectives from history, cultural anthropology, economics, social psychology, and political science—as well as an interactive and investigatory one in which students actively engage in the learning process. While a thorough knowledge of the EU requires a foundational description of EU treaties, structures, and procedures, a good portion of this course will then delve into the symbiotic relationship between the EU and the over 500 million citizens living within its borders. What do they think of the EU? What opportunities do they have to get involved? When, why, and how does public opinion matter? How have identities and opinions changed over time, especially given enlargement, immigration, and the resulting demographic shift? How do these patterns vary across individuals and member states? This additional angle will provide students with more comprehensive insight into contemporary EU affairs.

OBJECTIVES: Through active engagement in class, students will:

- Familiarize themselves with the history, institutions, accomplishments, and challenges surrounding the EU
- Compare the EU to other worldwide phenomena in order to determine whether it is sui generis, a model for other regional integration endeavors to emulate, or something else
- Develop practical, transferrable skills such as reading comprehension, critical thinking, analytical research, and persuasive writing
- Advance their technological skills through platforms like Adobe Cloud, Flipgrid, etc.
- Cooperate and communicate with one another to share knowledge and expertise
- Recognize where the course material fits into scholarly dialogue and analyze strengths/weaknesses within an argument
- Identify applicability of course material to personal interests and real-world events
- Learn to differentiate between extrinsic and intrinsic motivations/value/etc.
- Cultivate a strong sense of personal responsibility and the associated pride that results from setting clear goals, being challenged beyond comfort and pushed to excel, overcoming “obstacles”, and truly earning the outcome they receive

CRITICAL THINKING: This course is part of the Clemson Thinks² (CT2) program and, as such, is designed to not only convey the necessity and utility of thinking critically, but also to improve students’ critical thinking abilities to make them independent thinkers, judicious consumers, attractive employees, and effective world citizens. To this end, we will clearly delineate what critical thinking means and students will complete multiple assignments to refine their personal critical thinking skills. (These assignments will then comprise a series of artifacts demonstrating their CT proficiency.)

WHAT TO EXPECT: Plan to meet synchronously via Zoom during our normal class time. (Our Zoom Meeting ID is 960 0553 8656 and the passcode is 3750; you should also be able to access meetings directly from Canvas by clicking the “Zoom” link on the left-hand side of our Canvas webpage.) During Zoom meetings, our class format will vary between lecture, small breakout groups, class discussion, and other miscellaneous activities. All Zoom meetings will be recorded and posted to Canvas for you to access again as necessary. I will post supplemental videos and resources as applicable.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES: Personal responsibility is more imperative than ever. All readings and assignments should be done before class time on the day they are listed to facilitate lecture and discussion. Please check Canvas and your Clemson email daily for important updates and announcements, as you will be accountable for all information transmitted via these electronic resources. Even though things are different than “normal” due to the ongoing Covid-19 situation and the fully online nature of this course, everyone is expected to pay attention, take good notes, participate actively on assignments & during Zoom class discussions, and be courteous to others.

REQUIRED READING: You will need the following ASAP...

- Cini, Michelle, and Nieves Perez-Solorzano Borragan. 2019. European Union Politics. 6th Edition. New York: Oxford University Press. ISBN 9780198806530. → hereafter “C&B”
- Kenealy, Daniel, John Peterson, and Richard Corbett. 2018. The European Union: How Does It Work? 5th Edition. New York: Oxford University Press. ISBN 9780198807490. → hereafter “KPC”
- Other assigned readings accessible online and/or through Canvas
- Keep up with a reputable news source of your choice (recommended: BBC News, The Economist, The Wall Street Journal, etc.)

GRADE COMPONENTS: The course is structured as follows:

Assignments (15%)

Throughout the semester, students will be expected to complete a series of small assignments ranging from Flipgrid video responses, discussion posts, news article summaries, journal article summaries, peer review work, and more etc. Details on each assignment (including how much it counts toward your final grade) to be posted on Canvas over the coming weeks.

Digital Policy Brief Project (25%)

Students will compile an Adobe Spark® Page profiling what they argue to be the most important issue currently facing the EU and outlining a specific policy recommendation for how the EU should address it. More detailed information coming in a separate handout soon. To underscore the importance of—and high expectations for—this assignment, there are several built-in “Project Work Days” throughout the semester. Final project weblinks must be uploaded to Canvas no later than 11:00am on Tuesday, December 1st. A 10% per day late penalty will be strictly enforced. Please note: given the closeness between this due date and the end of class, students will not know their project grade before the final exam! If this is important to you, I must receive your final project no later than Thursday, November 19th.

Exams (60%)

There will be two closed-book midterms and a cumulative final exam. All exams will take place online. To ensure academic integrity, students will be required to use the Respondus Lockdown Browser & Monitor (which keeps tabs on students via Webcam) through Canvas. Midterm I (worth 15%) will be held on Tuesday, September 29th over material from Parts I-III of the course. Midterm II (worth 15%) will be held on Thursday, November 5th over parts IV & V of the course. The final exam (worth 30%) will take place at the university-scheduled date and time (Wednesday, December 9th from 3:00–5:30pm) over everything we’ve covered this semester.

Mark your calendars now: exams may only be made up in the rare event of a legitimate, University-approved, and appropriately documented circumstance.³

Attendance & Participation (0%)⁴

Because I want to be as flexible and understanding as possible this semester, I will not be taking attendance at Zoom meetings and there is no official “grade” for participation. That said, do not be deceived: It is impossible to do well without being actively engaged. Be warned: missing Zoom class and falling behind in the reading can have an extremely detrimental effect on your final course grade via its impact on your comprehension of the course material. Preparation and participation are critical as the course builds cumulatively upon all earlier material.

GRADE BREAKDOWN:

Attendance & Participation – 0%
Various Assignments – 15%
Midterm I – 15%
Midterm II – 15%
Digital Policy Brief Project – 25%
Cumulative Final Exam – 30%

GRADING POLICY: This is a letter-graded course. At the very end of the semester, grades ending in .5 to .9 will be rounded up to the nearest whole number; those below .5 will not be.

- 90-100 = A
- 80-89 = B
- 70-79 = C
- 60-69 = D
- 0-59 = F

ONLINE CLASSROOM POLICY: It should go without saying that even though we are not meeting in person this semester, students are to adhere to proper and respectful conduct at all times, particularly if/when sensitive material is presented and/or conflicting opinions arise.

BEWARE: The online nature of this course makes it all the more important that YOU hold yourself accountable for being prepared, paying full attention, and seeking help as you need it. It should go without saying that succumbing to the temptation to “multi-task” by checking social media or browsing the internet during class time will have a severely negative impact on your grade.

EXAM POLICY: Exams may only be made up under extreme circumstances and require appropriate documentation presented to the instructor prior to the date of absence. In cases where advance notification is not feasible (e.g. unanticipated illness, accident, or emergency) documentation must be provided upon return to class. For illness, documentation should include an official note from a doctor or clinic. If the instructor approves a make-up exam, it must then be taken within one week of the original test date listed in the syllabus, except under extreme circumstances approved by the instructor.

CANCELLATION POLICY: If class or office hours need to be cancelled unexpectedly, I will send an email and post a notice on Canvas in advance. If for some reason I am more than 15 minutes late to Zoom class, you may assume class that day is canceled. In the event of inclement weather or power outages, we will follow the University's protocol as follows: "Any exam that was scheduled at the time of a class cancellation due to inclement weather, University power outage, etc. will be given at the next class meeting unless contacted by the instructor. Any assignments due at the time of a class cancellation due to inclement weather will be due at the next class meeting unless the instructor contacts students. Any extension or postponement of assignments or exams must be granted by the instructor via email or Canvas within 24 hours of the weather-related cancellation."

COVID-19 POLICY: For a student who reports testing positive or is being asked to quarantine/isolate because of exposure to the virus, it will be up to the student to inform the instructor that they will be moving to online only instruction for at least the next two weeks. Students are directed to use the Notification of Absence link in Canvas to initiate this notification, which can be found under the "Help" button on the left navigation. (For courses where Canvas is not used, the direct link to the Notification of Absence form can be found through the Division of Student Affairs site: <https://www.clemson.edu/campus-life/student-health/class-absence.html>.) Additional communication via email is encouraged; students should follow up with their instructor to develop a continued plan of study for each course. Students cannot be penalized in their grade for needing to move to online instruction.

ACCESSIBILITY POLICY: Clemson University values the diversity of our student body as a strength and a critical component of our dynamic community. Students with disabilities or temporary injuries/conditions may require accommodations due to barriers in the structure of facilities, course design, technology used for curricular purposes, or other campus resources. Students who experience a barrier to full access to a class should let the professor know, and make an appointment to meet with a staff member in Student Accessibility Services as soon as possible. You can make an appointment by calling 864-656-6848 or by emailing studentaccess@lists.clemson.edu. Students who receive Academic Access Letters are strongly encouraged to request, obtain and present these to their professors as early in the semester as possible so that accommodations can be made in a timely manner. It is the student's responsibility to follow this process each semester. You can access further information here: <http://www.clemson.edu/campus-life/campus-services/sds/>.

TITLE IX POLICY: Clemson University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, pregnancy, national origin, age, disability, veteran's status, genetic information or protected activity (e.g., opposition to prohibited discrimination or participation in any complaint process, etc.) in employment, educational programs and activities, admissions and financial aid. This includes a prohibition against sexual harassment and sexual violence as mandated by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. The University is committed to combatting sexual harassment and sexual violence. As a result, you should know that University faculty and staff members who work directly with students are required to report any instances of sexual harassment and sexual violence, to the University's Title IX Coordinator. What this means is that as your professor, I am required to report any incidents of sexual harassment, sexual violence or misconduct, stalking, domestic and/or relationship violence that are directly reported to me, or of which I am somehow made aware. There are two important exceptions to this requirement about which you should be aware: Confidential Resources and facilitators of sexual awareness programs such as "Take Back the Night and Aspire to be Well" when acting in those capacities, are not required to report incidents of sexual discrimination. Another important exception to the reporting requirement exists for academic work. Disclosures about sexual harassment, sexual violence, stalking, domestic and/or relationship violence that are shared as part of an academic project, a research project, classroom discussion, or course assignment, are not required to be disclosed to the University's Title IX Coordinator. This policy is located at <http://www.clemson.edu/campus-life/campus-services/access/title-ix/>. Ms. Alesia Smith is the Executive Director for Equity Compliance and the Title IX Coordinator. Her office is located at 223 Holtzendorff Hall, phone number is 864.656.3181, and email address is alesias@clemson.edu.

ACADEMIC HONESTY POLICY: Violations of academic honesty, including cheating or plagiarism, are unacceptable and will be seriously prosecuted. Plagiarism includes—but is not limited to—borrowing ideas and paraphrasing them within a paper without properly citing them, copying passages directly from sources without enclosing them in quotation marks, purchasing or stealing another person's paper to turn in, or having someone else write an assigned paper. Note that I also consider plagiarism to include submitting your own identical work for more than one assignment or course (aka "double dipping" or "self-plagiarism") without prior approval from both instructors. I highly recommend that you review the "Plagiarism Packet" posted in the "Resources" folder on Canvas, as well as the plethora of information on Clemson Library's "Avoiding Plagiarism" website.⁵ If you have any further questions, you should consult Clemson University's current Undergraduate Announcements catalog for information on rules and regulations related to academic integrity. If you have any doubt about what is or is not permissible, ask first.

Clemson University's official statement on academic integrity is as follows: "As members of the Clemson University community, we have inherited Thomas Green Clemson's vision of this institution as a "high seminary of learning." Fundamental to this vision is a mutual commitment to truthfulness, honor, and responsibility, without which we cannot earn the trust and respect of others. Furthermore, we recognize that academic dishonesty detracts from the value of a Clemson degree. Therefore, we shall not tolerate lying, cheating, or stealing in any form." See <https://www.clemson.edu/academics/integrity/plagiarism.html> for more information.

DISABILITY POLICY: Students needing accommodations for disabilities should make an appointment with the office of Student Disability Services ASAP to discuss their specific needs. (See contact info below.) Qualified students must then provide me with an Academic Accommodation Letter from Student Disability Services within the first three weeks of classes to ensure your needs are met in a timely manner. I cannot guarantee accommodations for students who notify me of a disability request after this date! Please be aware that accommodations are not retroactive and that new Academic Accommodation Letters must be presented to each instructor each semester.
