Peer-Assisted Learning (PAL)

Service Description
Collaborative, supportive and structured group learning sessions facilitated by a peer leader who successfully completed the course. During a PAL session, you have the opportunity to work collaboratively with other students to practice problems and discuss challenging course material as well as learn tips and tricks for success from your PAL leader. PAL sessions are held on a twice-weekly basis for 15+ introductory courses in engineering, math, science and business.

Next Steps
- Listen to and look out for in-class and email announcements from your PAL leader.
- Access the schedule at clemson.edu/asc.
- Attend a session that works with your schedule.
- Be proactive! Start attending sessions early in the semester and return often.

NOTE: PAL may not align with content of Bridge to Clemson courses.

Tutoring

Service Description
Supportive drop-in and by-appointment learning sessions facilitated throughout the week by a peer tutor who successfully completed the course. During a tutoring session, you can ask the peer tutor specific questions you have about course content. The tutor can also share effective study strategies for learning challenging course concepts and work practice problems with you. Drop-in tutoring sessions are offered for 100+ courses and individual appointments are offered for selected courses.

Next Steps
- Access the schedule at clemson.edu/asc.
- Bring your notes and study materials to make the most of your time.
- Be proactive! Start attending sessions early in the semester and return often.

LearningLab

Service Description
Supportive drop-in learning sessions facilitated throughout the week by a peer learning consultant. During LearningLab you can work with the peer learning consultant to identify effective learning and study strategies you can utilize for your courses. The peer learning consultant can also refer you to other helpful success strategies.

Next Steps
- Drop by the ASC Monday through Thursday, 12:30-4:30 p.m.

Tutoring Matching Service (TMS)

Service Description
An online platform accessible from the ASC website that allows you to connect with a private tutor. TMS tutors post their schedules, hourly rates and format (online vs. in-person) on the TMS platform.

Next Steps
