CU BRAND POLICY / ARCHITECTURE

In order to protect use of the name “Clemson University,” the wordmark, the seal and University tiger designed in 1995, the academic logo designed in 2009, and other official subordinate graphic symbols, the Clemson University Board of Trustees has determined that the name “Clemson University,” the word “Clemson” used in the context of Clemson University, the University seal, the University tiger, the Academic logo, and other authorized symbols shall not be used for any noncommercial official, quasi-official, promotional or similar purpose by any organization, group or activity without the express approval of the Board of Trustees.

Further, to ensure consistency in representation of the Clemson Brand, non-authorized logos, wordmarks or symbols may not be used to represent Clemson University or any of its colleges, schools, divisions, departments, programs or offices without the express approval of the Board of Trustees.

Lastly, University units using Clemson University funds to produce publications or other communications materials must include approved Clemson branding.

The Board delegates to the administration the responsibility for implementation of this policy, including authority to develop and publish guidelines for appropriate use of Clemson University’s name, symbols and logos, with approval of the Administrative Council, with the proviso that the final academic logo design will be approved by the Institutional Advancement Committee. In these cases, “the administration” refers to the Office of Creative Services of the Division of Advancement.

In keeping with existing procedures, responsibility for monitoring use of symbols created in the Athletic Department will be delegated to the Athletic Department.

Adopted by the Clemson University Board of Trustees on February 12, 2009.

Academic logo approved on April 17, 2009.
The Wilbur O. and Ann Powers College of Business is transforming students into leaders, innovators and entrepreneurs who succeed in the global marketplace of ideas.

Through an immersive educational experience, both in and out of the classroom, our students become proven, market-ready leaders, poised to shape the future.
Because of their value to Clemson, any mark that is intended to represent the University is the property of the University and must fit all University guidelines. Logos may not be used for commercial purposes without prior approval of the Trademarks and Licensing Office.

COLLEGE WORDMARK GUIDELINES

• When names begin with “College of” or “School of,” that portion should be set in upper and lower case (see examples) and cannot be excluded from the logo’s design. “Department of,” “Division of” and “Office of” should not be used.

• The college, department or unit name should be set in Trade Gothic Bold No. 2, in all capital letters and on no more than two lines.

• The rules and the name of college, department, etc., must be the same color, either purple (Regalia) or white (Fort Hill).

• In some instances “Institute for” and “Center of/for” versions will be created at this level. Those logos should be treated in the same way as college and school logos. In the case a unit is named for a donor it should be typeset in all caps.

• If printed in black and white, the logo may be printed solid black.

• The logo may be reproduced entirely in Clemson Orange. Any other color variations must be approved in advance by Creative Services.

• Registration ® mark must always be used on the word “Clemson” and on the paw.

* PREFERRED COLLEGE LOGO

The preferred logo for use by the college is the version with the tiger paw before the college name.
Business brand colors are a subset of the Clemson University brand colors. Clemson “owns” the color orange — a great asset for building a powerful brand. The color strategy for the business brand is to use primary colors that strongly tie back to the University and reflect the spirit of innovation, leadership and entrepreneurship. These secondary colors provide a depth to the brand that will allow more variety and versatility in the development of marketing media while maintaining a coordinated, integrated look.

NOTE:
When using orange and black together, an 80/20 or 90/10 ratio should be used to prevent a Halloween tone.

Always use the full name "Wilbur O. and Ann Powers College of Business" in first reference. In second reference, you may use "business," "business school," "B-school" or continue to use the full name. Do not use an acronym to shorten the College name in any reference.

For a quick, clear reference, see the Editorial Style Guide at clemson.edu/guidelines.

Accuracy and consistency are essential to maintaining a positive, professional image of the Wilbur O. and Ann Powers College of Business and the University. The Department of Creative Services has created the Clemson University Editorial Style Guide, a nonacademic in-house reference source for writers and editors of Clemson promotional and marketing materials, including those for the College of Business.

In brief, the Associated Press Stylebook is the preferred style source and Webster’s New World Dictionary, Third College Edition is the preferred dictionary. The Chicago Manual of Style is preferred for issues not addressed by AP.

Trade Gothic has been a staple of graphic design for many decades. These typefaces were developed, in part, to bridge the gap between quirky, grotesque fonts of the late 19th century and the carefully modulated typefaces that emerged in the mid-20th century.

Because Trade Gothic does not display as much unifying family structure as many other sans-serif families, it appears to be more hand-worked. But the dimensions of this font frame up well: They are bold without being distracting, and the letters are tough and upright, communicating strength.

The brand equity of the Clemson wordmark is of utmost importance, so retaining the Goudy Oldstyle typeface for limited usage is strategically beneficial in some limited usage.

The handwritten script FG Saga is introduced to provide a friendly, approachable style element that reflects the warm and welcoming aspect many feel on campus. It also suggests a nod to Clemson’s handwritten will that was the inspiration for the school’s legacy.

This suite of three typefaces provides a comprehensive collection of fonts for any College of Business publication, and it has been comprised so that it is all that is needed to create appropriate and effective emphasis in all business communications.

Verdana is the approved font family for use in the design of Web sites, PowerPoints and other forms of electronic communication where the use of Goudy, Trade Gothic and FG Saga are not available or practical.
PHOTOGRAPHY

Photos create compelling visual stories, and people often look first at images before words. With this in mind, select every image for maximum communication. Photography should convey the University’s brand attributes — family, service, leadership, tradition, inspiration, collaboration, competition, focus and determination, and bold energy.

Posed photographs should appear as natural as possible. Posed shots are at risk of losing vital energy, which translates into weaker impact. Allow subjects to walk, talk, move and comfortably be themselves. Subjects should seem unaware of the camera. Ideally, subjects are not working alone, but rather are collaborating.

Photographs should seem natural while they convey energy, action and engagement. Subjects should be photographed in an environment that corresponds to the purpose of the portrait.

PHOTO FILTER
To further differentiate the business brand, a photo filter technique is suggested for the feature images when appropriate. This technique is not to be used on every image in the layout but can create a compelling visual to a larger feature image. The filter techniques and instructions are shown on the following pages.

PHOTOGRApher GUIDELINES
• Shoot in high-resolution color, using 24-bit or higher color depth.
• Shoot wide so photos can be cropped from all directions.
• Format should be high-resolution JPEG files (.jpg), TIFF (.tif) files or RAW.
• Bitmap files should be a minimum of 9 inches across by 12 inches high, at a resolution of 300dpi or 2700 x 3600 pixels.

An assortment of graphic elements can be used to give continuity to designs across print, digital and environmental collateral.

THE PINSTRIPE
We have selected continued use of a solid line or dotted line for business. Choose an odd number of lines when used in multiples. Pinstripes can be used horizontally or vertically. Line weights should be relevant to the size of the piece and not overpower the photography or text message.

GRAPHICAL TEXT CONTAINERS
These can be used to emphasize headlines or parts of a headline as shown in the example below. This also can be used for call-out quotes or text.

POSITIONING OF ELEMENTS
Text, images and other graphic elements should have varying alignment to create visual interest. Structure and organization of the elements are controlled by an underlying grid of column guides and grids that are not seen by the viewer. This is essential to the design to create a rhythm to the layout.
Historically, the school has had 95% or higher graduate job placement, with many positions ranging from top consulting firms to high-impact roles in the public sector.

Here are some examples of ways the Clemson student-entrepreneur Josh Luetkemeyer turned ice into “gold.”

Clemson is definitely the place to be for students interested in entrepreneurship. The university’s MBAe program has been designed to attract spirited entrepreneurs who wish to explore start-up ideas and pivot ideas to find the most success.

The first two months of the MBAe program had Luetkemeyer identify and interview potential customers. This process allows students to learn from the market, as well as grow, modify, and pivot ideas to find the most success.

The ideal of hands-on learning, where students work with equipment, theories and problem solving.

While many graduate business programs recommend beginning one’s professional career while still in school, the accounting major at Clemson University offers students the opportunity to explore their potential as an entrepreneur.

The Accounting B.S. degree offers a solid foundation in financial accounting principles, as well as introductory courses in management, economics, and statistics.
