Sigma Nu
Clemson
Theta Zeta
Organization and Chapter History

• Theta Zeta started as a local chapter, Kappa Delta Chi. Founded in 1959 as an inconspicuous chapter which later became Theta Zeta in 1970.

• Love, Truth, and Honor are the core values of Sigma Nu which we still pride ourselves on today.
Philanthropy and Service

• Every year Sigma Nu at Clemson participates in various charities to promote involvement in the community.

• Game Ball Run
  • Sigma Nu partners with Dabo Swinney’s All-In foundation during the Game Ball Run. We are responsible for running half-way to Columbia to exchange the ball with South Carolina during the rivalry football game.

• Generations Group
  • Our chapter makes a trip each year to spend time with sexually abused boys at The Generations Group. This is a wonderful experience for every brother. It means so much to the kids we meet with.
Sigma Nu at Clemson University is an honorable organization of men who strive to be leaders in our community. Members hold positions in IFC, Order of Omega, and student council currently. This fraternity is focused on teaching new members how to act with a high sense of honor and carry that with them after their college days, meanwhile helping individuals around them in every way they can.
Message From Commander: Wilkins Norwood

- The theta zeta chapter is an extraordinary organization. It is a group of men from various backgrounds brought together by a common pursuit of excellence through service, leadership, and philanthropy. This past year tested our brotherhood more than ever through tragic events. This has brought us even closer together and it is neat to see a group of men not afraid to tell each other they love each other. Whether it’s during a good time, or a challenging time. As a chapter, we have decided to use these challenging times to give back to the community. Sigma Nu has taught me that if service is below you, leadership is above you. My favorite thing about the relationships you build through this fraternity is that they are beyond college years. The networking force we have built has proven to be a wonderful source for finding work, living, and more friendships after our time at Clemson. Following the traditions and guidelines of the brothers that have come before, the chapter continues to be regarded on the Clemson University campus with the highest respect and honor.
I am a senior at Clemson University, and I have been strongly involved in Sigma Nu for the past 3 years. Words cannot describe what this fraternity has done for me. I have formed life-long relationships with people from many different walks of life that I know will stick with me through thick and thin. Being a Sigma Nu has taught me to hold myself to a higher standard and put others before me. The lessons I have learned and the connections I have formed will continue to lead me further in life and I am forever thankful.
