Clemson University is committed to maintaining an environment that is healthy, safe and attractive for all members of the community. Students who choose to use alcohol and other drugs assume a responsibility to comply with South Carolina laws and University policies, to make decisions that reduce their personal risks, and to consider the health and safety risks posed to others. The University provides education, programs, and policies to empower students to make responsible decisions relating to alcohol and other drug consumption. Students who choose to violate University policy related to alcohol and other drug use are subject to discipline as outlined in the student code of conduct. Where those actions also violate state and/or federal law, students are subject to legal consequences as well.

Clemson University utilizes a comprehensive and multilayered harm reduction strategy, based on the Social-Ecological Model and focusing on harm prevention, to reduce the rates of misuse of alcohol and other drugs and their associated negative consequences. The American College Health Association’s Healthy Campus 2020 is intended to provide institutions of higher education with a framework by which to identify priorities and mobilize action. Their objectives and measures serve as a national reference for this plan. The American College Health Association’s National College Health Assessment II (ACHA-NCHA II) is be used as the national reference to track progress.

Clemson University’s AOD strategic plan includes targets set for 10% improvement by 2020 as compared to the 2010 NCHA national reference data in the following measures:
- High-risk drinking and illegal drug use
- Consequences of alcohol and drug use
- Protective behaviors

The Clemson University data and national reference data are shown in the tables on the following pages.

Programs will be developed to address individual students, campus, community and state/national. Based on past data, Clemson has identified the following strategic subpopulations:
- Off-campus students
- Fraternity and sorority members
- First-year students
- Families

In order to reach our long-term goal, Clemson has adopted an evidence-informed approach and established four strategic focus areas.

Areas of Strategic Focus:
1. Prevention
2. Intervention and Treatment
3. Environmental Management
4. Protective Measures
