

STUDENT AMBASSADOR PROGRAM

What is it?

Student Ambassadors for the Department of Automotive Engineering represent the department at events, give tours to prospective students, and often fill in where staff and faculty cannot. Ambassadors may sign up for as many or as few events as their schedules allow; there is no rigid time requirement.

Who is eligible?

While most of our Ambassadors are students within the Automotive Engineering department, any interested Clemson student can sign up regardless of their major or current standing (freshmen through graduate-level students welcome!)

What are the perks?

Students will receive pre-loaded Visa gift cards that can be used similarly to a credit or debit card. The amount will vary based on the time commitment of each Ambassador opportunity.

Ambassadors will receive a free Automotive Engineering polo shirt after signing up for their first event.

The Ambassador program can lead to some unique networking opportunities and looks great as an extra-curricular on your resume!

How do I sign up?

1. Email automotive@clemson.edu and indicate your interest in joining the Student Ambassador Program.
2. We'll send you a link to enroll in a Tiger Training course, where you'll learn about the department, answers to FAQs you might encounter, and also learn how to give a tour.
3. Let us know once you have completed the training course, then you'll be added to our Ambassador email list – most events are advertised via our email list on a first come, first served basis (see an example on the next page).
