

Lyceum Fellows Program

at Clemson University

Who We Are...

The Lyceum Fellows Program is open to Clemson students of any major. Fellows make up an intellectual community that uses a Great Books approach to studying the moral, political, and economic foundations of a free society. Fellows are also invited to lectures, events, and Lyceum's study abroad program.

Why Join?

Consisting of 4 core courses plus 2 electives, our curriculum is designed to be a flexible pathway to a minor in Political and Legal Theory. Fellows graduate with the skills necessary to be serious thinkers, articulate speakers, and eloquent writers.

What I found in the Lyceum Fellows Program was a richness and depth my other classes sorely lacked. The classes and discussions painted a picture with more than just the broad strokes of politics and philosophy but filled in the details that helped me actually understand Western political and philosophic thought. The emphasis was never on rote memorization of facts, but rather on critical analysis and creative thinking – Jim Atwater, Class of '23

Interested?

Scan the QR code to learn more about the Lyceum Fellows Program and sign up for an interest meeting with a Lyceum Professor.

Connect With Us!

lyceum@clemson.edu

clemson.edu/lyceumfellows

@clemsoncapitalism 