

Ph.D. in Learning Sciences

College of EDUCATION

Clemson University's interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Learning Sciences is designed for individuals looking to become tenure-track faculty, research scientists, developers and practitioners in professional, non-profit and academic settings. This Ph.D. advances students' understanding of development and learning, as well as the design of technology-enhanced learning. The interdisciplinary approach of the program draws from cognitive, computational, educational, psychological and technological sciences.

Concentrations

Our students study a range of topics related to learning and development, and are not limited to specific concentrations.
