Online Ed.S. in Building-Level Educational Leadership

Clemson University’s online Educational Specialist in Educational Leadership (Ed.S.) is for experienced educators who want to learn how to serve students and communities collaboratively and to acquire the necessary skills to solve the complex problems facing schools today. The Ed.S. combines the educational excellence that Clemson is known for with the flexibility that many educators need. The program enables students who already have a master’s degree in education or a related field to earn an advanced degree focused on building-level educational leadership. Graduates become principals, assistant principals, instructional coaches, and curriculum specialists, and serve in a wide variety of building-level and district-level leadership roles. The GRE is no longer required for admission. South Carolina teachers and leaders receive a 10% reduction in tuition.

Program Format

The online Ed.S. offers convenience and flexibility with the same high-quality learning experience associated with Clemson’s face-to-face programs. The two-year, 10- or 12-course program includes an emphasis on instructional leadership and building equitable schools. Students take two, eight-week courses a semester with field experiences embedded in each course. In the last half of the program, students apply what they are learning in the program to address a problem of practice in an educational setting they are familiar with. Students choose from three degree options, which consist of 30 or 36 credit hours.

The online Ed.S. plan of study shown on this page leads to South Carolina building-level certification in administration and supervision.
