FACULTY SENATE MEETING
April 11, 2017

1. Call to Order: The Faculty Senate Meeting was called to order at 2:31 p.m. by President Mary Beth Kurz. UPIC Intern, Wesley Hudson, introduced guests. New senators, delegates, and alternates introduced themselves.

2. Approval of Minutes: The Faculty Senate Meeting Minutes dated March 14, 2017 were approved as distributed.

3. "Free Speech": None.

4. Executive Vice President & Provost Robert H. Jones – He discussed the new power plant project. The decision was made by the university to give 75-million-dollar budget to support the project in order to stop black outs and other power issues across campus which would be provide electricity and heat. The project has about a 100x200 footprint. The project will help support the university’s goal to reduce the university’s carbon footprint. Duke Energy will take responsibility of the project in exchange that the university will purchase energy from the company for multiple years. The Provost stated that proper communication and transparency was not given campus and community wide so that everyone would be aware of the project.

5. Special Order of the Day:
   a. Jason Osborne, Associate Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies- He discussed the distribution of the graduate program review. The review helps departments see what their students need, what practices are going well, and what practices that are in place that need to be improved. Dr. Osborne is hoping that the program review will be universal so that it will be minimal work on faculty members. Every eight years a department will fully look at each program that falls under it. The architecture program will be the pilot for this project. The process/review will last for one year. The Graduate School will be in charge of facilitating the review and disseminating the evaluation results. The program proposal has been brought through the different levels of command for approval. The Graduate School is also looking to improve GS2 forms.

6. Committee Reports:
   a. Faculty Senate Standing Committees:
      Finance – Committee Chair Jennifer Ogle reported that the committee is continuing to work on the enrollment management plan and distribution formulas. The committee is reaching out to Deans after receiving March allocation results. The committee had a follow up meeting about the Salary Equity Study. The study was done confidentially by an external law firm. From the meeting, Ogle is planning to follow up with these results, as well as, complete a Staff Equity Study.

      Policy – Committee Chair Danny Weathers discussed the two pieces of New Business that will be brought later in the meeting. The committee will continue to discuss issues in Part VII. The Athletic Council has voted to restructure its membership lists. Lastly, the committee is working to ensure that College Bylaws are in alignment with the Faculty Manual and TPR guidelines.
Research — Vice President Amy Lawton-Rauh reported that the committee met with the Associate Deans of Research to discuss transparency with Academic Analytics. The committee is also working on Grant support services, and Small restricted receipts, and the Research Advisory Council.

Scholastic Policies — Committee Chair Holmveik reported that the committee is continuing to look into improving graduate students’ quality of life specifically with grade forgiveness. The committee recommended not changing anything with that process and graduate student access to tutoring. The committee supported CUSG in bringing forth a resolution to allow students to miss class due to interviews. Dean Griffin started a task force to improve General Education. There was a three-hour retreat that discussed these issues. Going forward the committee is working on undergraduate student testing facilities and accommodations that are now taking place in Vickerly Hall. Chair Holmveik also stated that the committee is looking into concerns about CU 1000 and the amount of students that are not passing the course.

Welfare — Committee Chair Katherine Weisensee received positive responses about the Faculty mentoring circles and its perpetuity. There will be a document on the HR website to view all benefits and summarizes those benefits. Josh Brown talked to the committee about the Spousal Hire program and the Employee Referral program.

b. ad hoc Faculty Senate Committees
Diversity and Inclusion Chair Rhondda Thomas: None.
Status of Lecturers and Senior Lecturers. Co-Chairs Edward De Julio and Shannon Robert: Committee Co-Chair Ed De Julio reported that 106 out of 296 lecturers hold PhDs that are not eligible for university awards. These concerns and recommendations were given to the Research and Welfare committees.
Athletics and Academics Oversight. Chair Bob Brookover: The Athletic Council has changed structure. The committee will now ask colleges to have an election for the two reps that once sat on the committee. The winner will stay on the committee while the runner up will serve as an alternate.

c. University Commissions and Committees:

7. Unfinished Business:
a. There was a motion to table Faculty Manual Part VII Section 8 indefinitely.

8. New Business:
a. Changes to the Grievance Process (Part V of Faculty Manual)
Committee Co-Chair Danny Weathers presented that the change is being made to ensure the process is in alignment with State HR. Grievance IIIs will now be referred to as Formal Complaints which is why there will need to be two different sections. The Grievance Board was heavily involved in approving this information before being brought to the Senate.

There was a motion to approve. There was discussion. The motion passes.

b. Academic Administrators

Committee Co-Chair presented this piece of policy to the Senate. There was some ambiguity about if academic administrators needed to be regular faculty which led to discussion on the subject matter.

There a motion to accept the changes. There was discussion. The piece of legislation passes.
Old President's Report:

"In my nomination materials in Spring 2015, I wrote the following:

"I will focus on shared governance as an ideal. In truth, I am not really sure what that means to me, but I think that it means in part that I will try to navigate the spaces that cause tension between faculty and administration to the benefit of the University. Tension is not inherently bad, and some tension serves the institution well. Understanding that many players have different interpretations of what serves the institution helps to navigate those issues."

Today, I reflect back on the last two years and I think I better understand what shared governance means. It means that different parties have different responsibilities and rights related to decision-making at Clemson. It seems to me that most of the difficulties I have seen have involved a lack of understanding the relative amount of responsibilities and rights any particular party has in the decision at hand.

In the last year, I believe the Faculty Senate has been working very well with various groups on campus, such as department chairs through the Organization of Academic Department Chairs, with the administration through Provost Jones and numerous other administrators (I hate to list them all because will miss some, there are so many that have worked with us), with current and emeritus faculty. I hope that spirit of collaboration continues, and I hope that the newly approved Committee on Committee and Shared Governance website (to be launched before August 1, 2017), has a lasting impact on institutionalizing the gains we've made.

I would like to tell the new senators as I am sure they will hear in the Orientation in May, that the University makes decisions over a very long time frame, so it behooves you (and us all) to pay attention to various items, and consider how they impact the university and the larger community in which we operate — and maybe not for several years. To the out-going senators, I'd like to encourage you to stay engaged, because you probably know a lot more about how the university works than your colleagues, and your ability to illuminate your colleagues will help.

I am sure that the Senate will continue to improve our university, and I look forward to seeing this under Amy's, Jan's and Jennifer's leadership.

Thank you for supporting me in the last year.

A video made by Clemson Broadcast Services was made to honor and highlight the term of 2016-2017 Faculty Senate President Mary Beth Kurz.

e. 2017-2018 President Amy Lawton-Rauh introduces herself and Senate officers Jan Holmevik (Vice President/President-Elect) and Jennifer Ogle (Secretary).

11. New President’s Report:

"Dear Faculty Senators,

I am humbled and honored to serve as Faculty Senate President for the 2017-18 term. I will do my best to help us ALL work together to represent, communicate, and serve in shared governance at Clemson University.

As Faculty Senators and Delegates, we work together to address concerns regarding procedures, policies, representation and inclusiveness, morale, resources, and communication. We find ways to turn these concerns into action items that sometimes have short fuses, and honestly most times take time resolve or move forward towards resolution with careful attention to detail as we hold the responsibility of shaping precedent and are caretakers of future interpretations and intentions.

Many times the best action items are to establish communication networks with administration, staff, Executive Leadership, and other academic freedom and scientific representatives...including Sikes Hall, the Board of Trustees, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), and the local and state communities.

Sometimes, we provide representation, and speak up as compliance tools and policies emerge. In these cases, we provide common and information to clarify and justify how support of specific (and sometimes challenging) aspects of faculty, staff and student life accelerates research and scholarly excellence, productivity, and contributions to the community and ultimately society.

Other times, we initiate and write or facilitate our non-senate colleagues in drafting informed documents such as Open Forums, which surprisingly has been underutilized lately (let’s encourage this as a voice).

Shared governance is the hallmark of a confident, nimble, forward-thinking and reflective institution.

Shared governance is also the mechanism we can use to ensure that all faces of University excellence thrive, and it helps us strive to highest achievement in our lecture halls, in our studios, labs, benches, and information centers, fields, centers and offices... locally, across the state, nationally and internationally.

Shared governance is also a responsibility that we all share across this campus... and it is imperative that we as Faculty Senate represent, serve, and empower thoughtful (sometimes tough) conversations connecting shared problem solving strategies across visions in research, teaching, service and scholarly pursuits.

Our role includes: protecting the fundamentals of these visions, and this is precisely why open, transparent communication that breaks issues down into essential elements helps us to nimbly facilitate a vibrant, inclusive, world-class institution of higher learning and scholarship.

With your support and as a team, let’s do our best to serve our colleagues, our units, and Clemson University as inclusive representatives while we empower everyone on campus to participate in shared governance in all of its forms and forums.

Thank you for your commitment to serve and let’s get going...!"

He was pleased to hear the annual reports from last year’s Term Committees discussing Shared Governance. He also discussed the importance of meeting with Senate leadership and continuing the growth of the relationship. Provost Jones also discussed the College of Science receiving adequate funding and finally receiving a financial model to sustain the college. The university has done complete analyses of each college’s budget to ensure that college is receiving the funding that it needs. Strategic planning prioritization is to solidify the university as a Top 20 university and improving the university as a research institution simultaneously.

1. Call to Order: The Faculty Senate Meeting was called to order at 2:31 p.m. by President Amy Lawton-Raul. UPIC Intern, C. Aaron Sullivan, introduced guests. New senators, delegates, and alternates introduced themselves.

2. Approval of Minutes: The Faculty Senate Meeting Minutes dated June 13, 2017 were approved as distributed.

3. “Free Speech”: None

4. Executive Vice President & Provost Robert H. Jones –

   Provost Jones started off his presentation with reminding the body to speak with the leadership of Faculty Senate about any issues they may be facing so that they can bring this information to him. He wants to be sure that collaboration is happening throughout all levels of the university and that everyone is following in accordance to the Faculty Manual. He also discussed how university events are being moved around in order to accommodate the university schedule as a whole. Specifically, his office has worked to remove all Faculty and student awards out of commencement, except Class of ’39 Award for Excellence, in order to cut down the time that parents, graduates, and faculty have to stay at the ceremony. They would like to have a more intimate ceremony for these types of awards. Another entity that is being consolidated by the university is the University Convocation that happens each August. The entire university (administrators, faculty, staff, and students) will all have University Convocation together in Littlejohn Coliseum. Jay Allison, author of This I Believe, will be the Convocation speaker.

   Provost Jones mentioned that the university has now done two years of budgeting for the Clemson Forward Strategic Budgeting process. The first year was dedicated to how to take new revenues to troubleshoot problems and clean up college reorganization budgets. This year, the university can get ahead of the game about budgets and investments. Vice Provost Granberg is going around showing these budgetary numbers to deans and colleges. He invited the Faculty Senate Finance committee to set up a meeting with he and Vice Provost Granberg to discuss the budget structure from the past and the future.

   Provost Jones also shared information the difficulties that the university is finding with hiring academic leaders externally. He reported that the College of Science has now hired a new dean of the college. This happened during the same time that the university was looking for two department chairs (Physics/Astronomy, Chemistry) in the college. The university wants all these searches to be done externally to get a fresh perspective.

      Policy – Committee Chair Danny Weathers
      The committee is working on looking through and fixing any inconsistencies found in the Faculty Manual.

      Research – Committee Chair Joshua Summers
      The committee is working on collecting benchmark data on research faculty status from peer research schools. The committee has also scheduled its first meeting with VPR that will take place on September 18.

They were told that the big gaps in the foundation accounts across the university have been filled. Each college is given its own particular budget specific to best fit each college. The committee also met with VPR Karanfil. This was a joint meeting with the Research Committee. The important thing that was brought up in this meeting was incentive returns which will decrease from 40% to 30% over the next two years. The university will also be looking into the energy and sustainability plan review. Other topics the committee will be working on are lab fee distribution, new program decisions, retirement benefits, parking and fees, Aramark contract escalation, and inefficient practices (FAS, SDS, etc.)

A proposal was brought up to consider to develop Department and College Assessment Committees. The committee also discussed the rules/guidelines that need to be put in place for Early Tenure/Promotion. Lastly, the committee is discussed where the process ends in dealing with the non-reappointment of Lecturers/ Senior Lecturers.

Research – Committee Chair Joshua Summers reported that the committee reviewed data from benchmark school regarding their “research faculty: status and presented these results to the Policy committee. The committee also met with the Vice President for Research to discuss changes in research policies, finances, and the vision.

Scholastic Policies – Committee Chair Cassie Quigley reported that there were issues with CU 1000 and the passage rates due possibly to Blackboard. Canvas was implemented in the Spring which allowed around an 80% passage rate for transfer students. Two modules were removed from course. There is still a face to face module including in the course. The committee is also sitting on the Academic Integrity policy which right now not in compliance with university standards. The committee will be meeting with the office of Global Engagement (Sharon Nagy and June Pitcher) to discuss proposals and feedback of the academic curriculum of these Study Abroad programs. One of the suggestions that the committee had is to bring these proposals through Curriculum committees.

Senator Cole reported that the committee is working to give students other options when it comes to buying textbooks besides purchasing them from Barnes and Noble.

Welfare – Committee Chair John Whitcomb reported that the committee is still working on the Day Care Center. Third Rank lecturer positions, and mentoring. Joint Bond Review Committee has approved the Phase One of the Day Care Center was approved today. The mentoring circles will allow faculty to submit applications in Research, Faculty Welfare, and Graduate Education in Teaching. Tiger Advance will be funding most of this project. Applicants will be able to choose a primary and secondary focus which will roll out in the spring and fully in August 2018.

b. ad hoc: Faculty Senate Committees
Athletics and Academic Oversight: Chair Bob Brookover reported that the council is discussing transfer students and their records from other colleges and their high schools to grant their college credits. 8. New Business:
   a. Chapter VII Section E8(b) 2017-18

   Rationale for Change:

   The by-laws of the graduate curriculum committee, as provided in the Graduate School Policy and Procedures Handbook, indicate that this committee includes, as non-voting members, one graduate student appointed by the graduate student body president, the registrar, and other members of the graduate school as needed. Though these members have been participating in the graduate curriculum committee, they are not specified in the Faculty Manual. The proposed change serves to make the Faculty Manual consistent with the graduate curriculum committee by-laws and practice.

   This piece of policy was brought to the floor by Policy Chair Danny Weathers. This piece of policy was called to a vote and was approved.

3. “Free Speech”: “Clemson at a Cross-Roads-Our Energy Future” - Dr. Terry Walker

   “Humans emit a catastrophic level of greenhouse gases disrupting the earth’s energy balance. The cost to mitigate climate change amounts to trillions of dollars passed on to taxpayers, and our children and grandchildren. Recently, an estimated $300B resulted from hurricane damage to Puerto Rico, Florida and Houston worsened by rising ocean temperatures [1]. In addition, ultrafine particle pollution from natural gas power plants causes significant health concerns [2].

   Though we are the cause of this problem, we have a solution. Most new power generation comes from solar and wind energy. For instance, Duke Energy invests billions of dollars into solar/battery technology in FL and NC. Why not in SC? Duke Energy will work with us, but we must demand this from them. Our peer institutions have similar concerns by taking action.

   - University of Virginia signed a 25-year agreement to install 32 MW solar power [3].
   - Duke University rejected a similarly proposed CHP plant in favor of renewable energy options [4].

I need your help by considering the following actions:

Action item 1:
Clemson University uses about half of its energy in electricity. Heating and cooling with natural gas currently accounts for the other half. The solution should be implemented in 3 phases:

1st phase – Complete by 2020. Work with Duke Energy to install solar/battery systems to displace all electricity on campus – requiring several hundred acres of land. Clemson’s 18,000 acres contain some land ideal for solar installation including building tops, parking lots and marginal forest land. We can work with the local towns for more land if needed.

2nd phase – Starting with Lee Hall and all new construction projects, require all buildings to be powered by solar. Convert our bus system to electric power and install more EV stations for new electric cars predicted to overtake the internal combustion car sales by 2038.

3rd phase – Begin renovations of older buildings away from old steam systems over the next decade. Start with converting Douthit Hills to geothermal heat pump systems. Dr. Raj Singh suggests financial benefits to Clemson University (CU) stating that the “CU energy bill is of the order of $10,000,000 per year [5] paying about 5 cents per kWh to Duke Energy. Photovoltaics and batteries can provide all the energy needs. Tucson Electric Power has signed a power purchasing agreement for solar/battery storage for 20 years for less than 4.5 cents per kWh [6]. CU can save $2 million per year.”
Action item 2:
Develop new collaboration between the FS Finance and Facilities committee and the CU Sustainability Commission. This action presents opportunities for engagement through direct collaboration with facility decisions that addresses this most critical of our grand challenges.

Clemson at a crossroads must act now. Our students and next generation depend on our leadership! Thanks for taking your time to consider these actions.”

4. Executive Vice President & Provost Robert H. Jones –

The University is in agreement with Terry Walker’s presentation. The university has done research about comparing different types of energy to find what best suits the campus. It was found that the usage of solar panels and other energy sources would be remarkably higher than other options. The university has decided to move forward with combined heat and power as it is already doing. It was suggested to create collaboration between the Sustainability committee and the Faculty Senate.

The next item is the first major gift called the Academic Cornerstone gift was given by Tom and Karen Chapman. They gave a four-million-dollar gift. They have also endowed a new professorship award and the Thomas E. Chapman Leadership Scholars Program advancement.

The last item is discussion about flyers on campus that include defamatory speech from organizations like the KKK. The administration does not stand beside these occurrences. How do we manage these things and keep them off campus while keeping in the spirit of inclusivity? The APLU just met to discuss this topic that had Academic Affairs, General Counsel, and Student Affairs members from different universities. One of the most powerful ways to create leverage against these groups is to create a Values Statement. It was encouraged that all faculty, staff, and students help in the creation of this statement. The current policy on these flyers is that every building has rules on what flyers can be posted on the interior and the Hendrix Student Center has responsibility for flyer postings on the exterior of buildings.

5. Special Order of the Day:
a. “Update on Long Range Framework Campus Plan”. Gerald van der Mey

Gerald van der Mey—

“The campus is now moving toward a Framework plan to discuss the route in which the university is going to take in decision making on the campus versus the actual next plan (5-10 years). There was a 40-member task force created to look over this plan. The campus is growing and will continue to grow. In the 5-10 years, there will be about five thousand more students on campus. If we get to that, there will be about a million square feet difference on the campus. The challenge that is being faced is how to make the campus younger instead of getting older.

The campus vision is based on the mission of the university, the campus as a whole, and the people who will interact with this campus. The five integrated layers on campus are the landscape, land use, urban design, development, and mobility.

Pete Knudson—

“The last layer of the campus deals with mobility to discuss transportation around campus. This Framework plan will greatly affect campus’ mobility. It is proposed to create roundabouts to eliminate congestion around Highway 63. It is also in the works to create a pedestrian priority zone. Pedestrians will be the main priority on the interior of campus to ensure safety.”
b. Clemson University Chief of Police, Chief Jami Brothers

Chief Brothers has been at the university for close to six months and was formally working for Anderson County. The Board of Trustees sent out a challenge to go around to discuss emergency action plans for each building. The average attendance for these trainings has increased attendance. She also discussed the CU Safe Alerts and test messages that go around to each mobile device and emails. Trauma kits have been placed in the Hendrix Student Center and the Union which will be brought to all units around campus. Also, the unit is working to ensure that all classrooms have the ability to lock. She also discussed the number of officers that have to come in for football games that improve relations with nearby departments. She stressed the importance of safety for each person that comes on Clemson University’s campus.

6. Committee Reports:
   a. Faculty Senate Standing Committees:

Finance – Committee Chair Jennifer Ogle reported that there are eight foci around campus that each one of the committee members has taken part of. She reported that the committee met with University Finance and offered to show the materials from the meeting to anyone who is interested.

Policy – Committee Chair Danny Weathers reported that the committee is working on three focal points:

1. University Asynchronous Committee (is not functioning properly at this time). The Committee is very large and not functional. How to get more faculty members engaged in this process.
2. Equity, Tenure, and Promotion. Should there be a policy in place to discuss if a faculty member declines to go up, early or early tenure or promotion and how that process should be laid out?
3. Time Between Sabbaticals – Trying to understand issues for subsequent sabbaticals in the Hendrix Model after the first sabbatical has been taken.

Research – Committee Chair reported that the Research Committee met with some pre notification for grantees and post (how to use the grant funding) committee award representatives from FSHE and PIAS. There is room for improvement for how faculty interface with pre and post awards. There is a meeting from the award representatives that they are feeling undervalued. The committee is working to improve the relations between these staff members and the college.

Scholastic Policies – Committee Chair Cassie McGuire reported that the committee is working about faculty and procedures which was forwarded to Sharon Nagy. They are worried about the time component in approving the proposals. Hopefully they will be able to forward this policy to Chair Faculty. Members of the policy committee. The committee is also working on the Academic Policy changes. The policy is being reviewed for the first time after 14 years by a committee that includes faculty, staff, and students. There has been an appeals section included that has been approved by General Counsel which will get forwarded to Academic Council.

Welfare – Committee Chair John Whitecomb reported that the committee had a conversation last week about the 1. Role of the Ombudsman. 2. Third Lecturer Rank, and 3. Gender Identification and Expression. There have been new members added to the committee, so the committee is working to get them caught up on the tasks of the committee.

The challenges that Clemson is facing on an IT level are: Information Security, Teaching & Learning-Student Success Technologies, E-Learning & Online Education, IT Workforce, Institutional Data Management, Business Intelligence & Data Analytics, Enterprise Application Integration, and IT Organizational Development. VP Kaurloto wants to have Wi-Fi all over campus, inside and outside. Some of the things that CCIT is challenged with are: transformational leadership, cultural change, agility, transparency, flexibility, adaptability, increased collaboration (internal and external), and customer-centric. CCIT is trying to incorporate an easier process with blended learning, cybersecurity, and data storage.

Dr. Pilcher: The Global Learning Task Force started last Spring. Faculty wanted to go beyond Study Abroad on how Global Learning is integrated into curriculum. The task force created a matrix and the Global Learning Institute to aid faculty in developing these standards in the curriculum. The task force’s goal is to see what faculty are already doing in each college to help support global learning in the classroom. The guideline is not to force this on faculty or students but to show them that these opportunities are available.

c. Mary Beth Kurz, Faculty Manual Editorial Consultant

FMEC Mary Beth Kurz described the process of forming resolutions to amend the Faculty Constitution. She submitted two resolutions. The first resolution is to limit the number of General Faculty meetings due to the lack of need for the meetings (Resolution 28-1). The second resolution is to allow for electronic voting at General Faculty meetings (Resolution 28-2).

6. Committee Reports:
   a. Faculty Senate Standing Committees:

   Finance – Committee Chair Jennifer Ogle reported to the Senate that the committee discussed many topics at the last Finance meeting.

   - The committee would like to see improved transparency of faculty representation on decisions dealing with finance and infrastructure across the university.
   - The committee is also working on the Research Incentive Return. There will be a 10% decrease returning back to colleges that are used to support “core facilities”. The committee is trying to figure out how the facilities are being chosen and what percentage of faculty actually use the chosen facilities. Also, the committee is working to find out how existing centers and institutes recover income for ongoing costs with dilution of funds.
   - Another topic the committee is working diligently on is the Lab Fee Distribution. Right now, about 50% of the fee goes to the colleges/unit and the other 50% goes to the Provost for overall university improvements. As it stands now, some majors pay significant lab fees while other majors pay none.
   - The committee is also working with the Vice President of Finance, Brett Dalton. He will be speaking with the full Senate at the April 10, 2018 meeting.

Policy – Committee Chair Danny Weathers reported to the Senate that the committee is working on:
Another topic the committee is the Non-reappointment of lectures/senior lectures and the language regarding this topic in the Faculty Manual. The committee is working with the Provost’s office to clear up the language that is upcoming.

The committee is also working on ways to make the University Assessment Committee more functional and coherent. This includes the membership and responsibilities of the committee.

Lastly, the committee will be receiving information from the Welfare committee that discusses the possibility of adding a Third Lecturer rank.

Research – Committee Chair Joshua Summers reported to the Senate that the committee is continuing the work on Research Culture across the university. The committee now has a standing meeting with the Vice President for Research, Tanju Karanfil. Lastly, the committee is dividing up the task of meeting with Associate Deans of Research from each college. So far, the committee has met with 4 out of the 7 ADRs.

Scholastic Policies – Committee Chair Cassie Quigley reported:

- The committee drafted a formal complaint regarding the university bookstore that has been downgraded to a memo/request for action regarding the policies of the bookstore.
- CU100 now has an 87% passage rate.
- An Academic Forgiveness ad hoc committee has been formed in which University Registrar, Debra Sparacino and Associate Dean for Curriculum, Jeffrey Appling will be the co-chairs. This committee will focus on transfer credits.
- A lab fee issue was presented to the committee which will passed on to the Finance committee.
- The committee is beginning the investigation into attendance policy and course of record issues.

Welfare – Committee Chair John Whitcomb reported:

- The committee has moved forward with the plan to introduce the Third Rank for Lecturers. The committee met and included Policy chair Danny Weathers to come up with a piece of policy that includes this language. The committee is hoping to present this to the EAC at the February 27th meeting. Welfare chair Whitcomb will meet with HR to ensure the validity of this process.
- Secondly, the committee is still working on the revised language to the Discrimination and Harassment policy of the university. The committee is working with the Director of Access and Equity, Jerry Knighton, on this project.

b. ad hoc Faculty Senate Committees
Athletics and Academics Oversight, Chair Bob Brookover:

The Athletic Department issued a statement in response to the Nassar situation at Michigan State. There was an all staff meeting called to reiterate risk management and training to discuss what to do when allegations come up. When dealing with minors, the department stresses the involvement of the police department first before going to anyone else.
- Two items that were up for approval were brought to the committee.
- The first committee was an interdisciplinary committee for the INNO that will be used mainly for Creative Inquiries that are interdisciplinary and ones that are housed in the Watt Center. This committee is on the Shared Governance website.
- The other committee was an ad hoc committee for the General Education committee. This was created so that elections for this committee can be completed before the new Faculty Manual comes out.
- At the next meeting, the committee will discuss a committee on the Internal Communications policy.

4. Committee Reports:
   a. Faculty Senate Standing Committees:

      Finance – Committee Chair Jennifer Ogle has had no additional meetings since the last report. Chair Ogle is going to meet with the new senators to get them abreast on next year’s information. The committee is looking to get more faculty involvement on financial matters on the state level.

      Policy – Committee Chair Danny Weathers exploring the idea of the Third Lecturer Rank. Chair Weathers encourages senators to send Danny or 2018-2019 Policy Chair John Whitcomb suggestions by next Tuesday, April 17th on the matter.

      Research – Committee Chair Joshua Summers reported that the committee has submitted its final report. The committee looked at the research culture throughout the year by speaking with ADRs and other staff in each college. The committee discovered that the university really does not have a research culture here. Every ADR said that the institution is not currently at the R-1 level. Chair Summers says that he will be passing this information off to the 2018-2019 Research Committee Chair Peter Laurence.

      Scholastic Policies – Committee Chair Cassie Quigley reported that the committee submitted its final report. Some action items that the committee will take into the new term are: 1. Finalizing Bookstore issues and HEOA 2. Academic Forgiveness Committee (Senator Alan Grubb is sitting on this committee as a faculty representative). Chair Quigley will be meeting with 2018-2019 Scholastic Policies Chair Kristine Vernon on Friday.

      Welfare – Committee Chair John Whitcomb reported that the final report was submitted. Chair Whitcomb met with 2018-2019 Welfare Committee Chair Betty Baldwin to give her information on action items for this next year. These items include the Third Lecturer Rank project with the Policy committee and the Maternity Leave policy, and the Mediation practices across the university for faculty.

President’s Report

- Outgoing President’s Report

“Senators, Delegates, Alternates, Colleagues, and Friends,

We set out to do many things together in Senate last Spring, just as today and this month committees are assembling to reflect on the past year to set agendas for 2018-2019. We have worked really hard alongside each to keep shared governance, academic freedom, free speech and transparency alive. We just heard the final reports of our committees highlighting how much we accomplished and continue to address— including across committees and individually as representatives.

A few things to highlight that have happened over the term:

- Childcare Center
- Proposed Updates to the Nondiscrimination Statement
- Open dialogue requesting space for the LGBTQIA+ community
- Free Speech discussing the power plant and our energy structures for faculty, staff, and students
- Mentoring Circle has become the NSF Trailblazers Mentoring and Leadership program
- Seats at the table for the upcoming Bookstore contract renewal
- Research Council representation
- Proposal in for a shared Shared Governance facility that would be for students, faculty, and staff
- A faculty collaboration hub that is in the “L” stage of the REAL process
- Lead Senators Project: Increase shared governance and transparency throughout the colleges
  - Academic Analytics forums

I have no doubt that this next year will bring many challenges-known and not yet imagined- but remember, you only have ten more senate meetings. Remember last year, I counted down the meetings because you only have ten more meetings until the next term. We have a total of eleven meetings in each term, and this is the first one. We don’t stop for anything, do we?

When you hear concerns and issues from colleagues, students, and staff looking to you as a problem solver, listen for three things that bring them to you: logic, perception, and passion.

Logic: For many things, there exists some amount of structure, best practice guideline, operating protocol, or organization chart that provides a predictable solution or guiding document.
University.

Perception: Regardless of what is presented, communicated, or may follow logic, our experiences and expectations can shape what we hear and gauge as important next steps to solve a problem or address an issue.

In these cases, when, how, and where we collect information and communicate tend to balance how much we accept from logic and how much logic can shape the path forward.

Passion: Working with people that care deeply about scholarship, research, teaching and contributing to society locally and globally means we are all driven by a fire, a passion which is difficult to describe in words but is really the essence of why we likely all are at Clemson University- as an institution of higher learning- and why we are all in this room. We are compelled to make everything around us succeed, and excel- in contribution to humanity. “

President Holmevik shares a few words about the great service that President Lawton-Rauh has done for the Faculty Senate.

   There was a motion by a senator to take a 10-minute break to allow for transition of the 2017-2018 Senate membership and the 2018-2019 Senate membership.

   The 2018-2019 term was called to order at 3:55PM.
Rationale for Change: In our March Senate meeting, we approved changes to the tenure probationary period (Chapter IV C 3). Specifically, if a faculty member chooses to reduce their probationary period (previously referred to as "early tenure") and formally submits their materials in the TPR system, the faculty member is committing to the process. As with a penultimate year evaluation, the faculty member cannot be reconsidered for tenure if receiving a negative outcome. The faculty member also forfeits any remaining years of the probationary period. The proposed changes below complete the change approved in March.

The piece of policy was called to question. The piece of policy passes.

b. Proposed Changes to Chapter IV-D (Non-reappointment of lecturers/senior lecturers)

Rationale for Change: These changes are intended to clarify the process for not reappointing lecturers and senior lecturers. Specifically, any negative recommendations for reappointment by the TPR committee, department chair, or dean will result in the Provost rendering the final decision.

This piece of policy was withdrawn and will be presented at the May meeting.

c. Bylaw Committee

There was a motion to charge a Bylaw committee in order to revise the bylaws of the Faculty Senate to start in August 2018 and to be chaired by Immediate Past President Amy Lawton-Rauh.

The committee passes.

  - New President’s Report

  “Dear Colleagues,
  It is an honor to serve as your president for the 2018/2019 Clemson University Faculty Senate. As we now embark upon a new Senate year, this body is better positioned than ever to continue its critical and constructive role in the shared governance of the university. Thanks in large measure to the work of past presidents, Amy Lawton-Rauh, Mary-Beth Kurz, Jim McCubbin, Antonis Katsiyannis, and Kelly Smith, to mention those
It is my goal to carefully sustain and develop these relationships with both the University administration as well as the Board of Trustees, while at the same time remaining a strong and independent advocate for faculty interests—someone you can always count on to speak truth to power when that is required, and who will always represent your interests.

In the coming year my main focus will be on safeguarding our academic integrity and freedom. As faculty, we are in the “knowledge business.” It is our job to educate and train those who will be the stewards of tomorrow. Each and every one of us practice that all-important job every day in our classrooms for the promise that we can help build a better future for everyone through our work and that of our students who will one day take our place. As part of that commitment, it is also our duty to vigorously stand up for, and defend, the integrity of the values on which our profession is built on. As a Faculty, we share a responsibility to foster an environment that is founded on honesty, trust, fairness, respect, responsibility and inclusiveness of all regardless of race, gender, ethnicity, or religious belief. As your President, I pledge to work tirelessly to help ensure that you can continue to pursue these foundational academic values in your work.

Another priority this year will be an inquiry into the status and work conditions for women faculty at the University. I am working closely with Dr. Jennifer Ogle and the Women’s Commission to charge a special ad hoc Senate committee to look into three particular questions:

1) Tenure and promotion and the question of under-representation of women at the highest levels of the academic professions.
2) Concerns regarding salary disparity between male and female faculty members.
3) A look at the work climate for women especially in light of the recent focus brought on by the #metoo and #timesup movements.

If you would like to become involved with this important initiative, I encourage you to reach out to me or Jennifer Ogle in the next few weeks.

Before I conclude, I want to draw your attention to the important role that our standing Senate Committees play. In a very real way these committees are where the bulk of Senate work gets done. In the coming year we are restructuring the way these committees operate. The main organizational change going in to next year is that the Executive and Advisory Committee will be split in two, one Executive committee consisting of officers and committee chairs and one Advisory Committee consisting of the Executive Committee plus additional members including the representative to the board of trustees and lead senators. Our plan is to have Executive Committee meetings in the 2:30pm-4:30pm time slot on the first Tuesday of the Month, Full Senate meetings as usual on the second Tuesday, standing subcommittee meetings on the third Tuesday or Thursday, and Advisory Committee meetings as needed on the fourth Tuesday. With this new structure
Finally, I want to thank again all the new incoming members of the Senate. As Provost Jones said in the orientation meeting this morning, the service that you provide to Clemson University is invaluable. You did not have to do this, and yet you chose to step up and stand for election. I applaud you. Since 1956, shared governance has played a critical part in making sure faculty interests have been heard and included when decisions were made. Going forward, it is now your voice, as a representative for the faculty of your college, that will be heard in this important role. I hope you will use it often and profoundly over the next three years!

Thank you for your attention.”
