

Breakout Session: Tuesday at 9:20am

An Olive Branch of Data: Building Department Relationships Through Strategic Outreach

By providing spend visibility to the departments, Clemson University's Procurement Team now has the ability to forge stronger relationships with campus departments. Aubrey Miller, the Business Data Analyst for Clemson's Procurement and Business Services will share a Departmental Spend Review for the Clemson Athletics Department and how it was used to position Procurement as a strategic and advisory partner, as well as enhance campus knowledge of Procurement's value-added services. We will also discuss the importance of collecting good quality and timely data sources.

Speakers:

Aubrey Miller

Aubrey Miller joined Clemson University in January 2013. As a member of the Strategic Operations Team, she is responsible for analyzing and translating spend and savings information in various formats to accommodate sourcing needs based on strategic procurement goals, initiatives and performance metrics. Aubrey has over 15 years of public procurement experience with state and local government agencies. She worked as Contracts Officer at the University of North Carolina Charlotte as well as a dual role of Procurement Officer and P-Card Program Administrator at the City of Charlotte prior to her employment with Clemson. Aubrey obtained her Certified Procurement Manager (CPM) certification in 2005. She holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in accounting from the University of North Carolina-Charlotte.